I have been remiss in not getting this to you. I will be alerting the DDCI and presumably the DCI next week to the plans for REX 79. If you like, I can note the coincidence of GLOBAL SHIELD at the same time.

NOTE FOR: Mr. Richard Lehman, NIO/W
SUBJECT: Forthcoming US ExercisesGLOBAL SHIELD and REX	25X′
1. The close timing of these two exercises could add unwarranted concern in Soviet assessments of US defense policy. The exercises are unrelated and their scheduling is incidental.	25X ²
2. Billed as the biggest SAC exercise ever, GLOBAL SHIELD involves virtually all of that Command's assets. To signal Moscow well in advance, SAC publicly announced the forthcoming exercise on 9 April but did not provide a date. It will be a no-notice, seven-day exercise sometime in June.	25X ²
3. REX 79 will occur on 30 and 31 May. It is the first major federal civilian relocation exercise since the Fifties. Emergency coordinators in 28 departments and agencies were informed on 9 April. Several hundred civilian personnel will scatter to their respective relocation facilities—about 22 sites within the National Arc, a 300—mile radius of Washington.	25 X ′
4. REX is part of a government-wide civil defense program review requested by the NSC. Its primary objectives are to critique emergency planning assumptions and to give the Interagency Communications System (ICS) a valid test. The ICS is a secure communications network that links all the sites in the National Arc to the central control and relocation base at	25X ²

5. REX is sponsored by the Federal Preparedness Agency. Regardless of the exercise's success or failure, a major reorganization of the US civil defense community will be implemented by October. The new conglomerate of federal agencies with civil defense responsibilities will be called the Federal Emergency Management Agency. Its two major components are FPA and the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency, a DOD entity. These proposed changes have been publicized widely. REX itself remains classified.

EXECUTUE Summary - 10 APRIL 79
morning - 10 APRIL 79

US: The Carter Administration's space policy is a mere collection of options without goals, according to some Congressmen who say they will take the initiative in formulating new space programs if the Administration does not. (NYT)

The Strategic Air Command announced yesterday it will conduct the most massive simulated nuclear war maneuvers in its 33-year history "later this year" and without any further notice. SAC made the plans for exercise "Global Shield 79" public to avoid speculation linking it with "any aspect of the world political situation at the time." No foreign observers will be invited to the exercise. In addition, the USSR will not be notified when the exercise takes place despite plans for SAC bombers to fly in its direction.

No nuclear weapons will be carried in the week-long exercise that will involve about 120,000 SAC personnel in all of its 52 locations worldwide. (UPI)

Navy officials have begun a full-scale investigation to determine the causes of 11 suspicious fires that killed one man and injured 34 others aboard the aircraft carrier USS John F. Kennedy. (UPI)

11. CIA: Jack Anderson writes that the House Assassinations Committee doubts the late mobster John Roselli's assertion that Mafia hirelings, with the blessings of the CIA, were sent to Cuba to kill Fidel Castro. The Committee suggested that Roselli's efforts to avoid deportation and prosecution for illegal gambling activities led to his public revelations about the plot. He may have hoped to get CIA intervention in his legal difficulties "as a price for his agreeing to make no further disclosures." (Post)

EUROPE

12. WESTERN EUROPE/NUCLEAR REACTION: French Premier Barre opened a $3.8 billion uranium enrichment plant in southern France saying that without nuclear energy France would face economic recession and mass unemployment. New safety checks have been ordered on the numerous French nuclear installations. (Post)

In Luxembourg, at a meeting of the EC environment ministers, the West German Interior Minister called for a conference of non-Communist industrial nations on the safety of nuclear reactors. (Post)

Belgian King Baudouin has overruled a police order issued over the weekend by a mayor that closed Belgium's biggest nuclear reactor plant on the grounds of alleged lack of security. The sovereign accepted the appeal by the plant's management against the decision to close the plant, owned by a joint Belgian-French company, which supplies 50 percent of its electricity production to France.
